

NIGHT EDITION

GREEN EDITION

ETRURIA CUTS DOWN AND SINKS A BARGE, NEARLY KILLING CREW

Coal Craft, Sliced in Half, Goes Down Immediately, While Three Men Sleeping Aboard Barely Escape with Life.

Capt. Martell and two sailors of the coal barge Du Bois narrowly escaped death to-day when the giant Cunarder Etruria started forward instead of backward while leaving her dock and literally cut the small craft in two. The Du Bois sank at the Cunard wharf in less than two minutes. Martell and his men were asleep, luckily, in the extreme rear of the barge. Had they been in the path of the big liner's prow death would have been inevitable.

The trio threw several hundred passengers of the Etruria into consternation as they leaped from their wrecked boat to the May, a coal lighter nearby, half dressed and carrying their shoes and hats in their hands. The screams of a hundred women and the yells of as many men, crowded about the railings of the Etruria, followed the plunging of the barge and the escape of its crew.

Reverted Too Late to Save.

Some one gave the engineer the wrong signal. The Etruria had been moving in between the May and the bulkhead lay the Du Bois and the May. Etruria started forward. The Du Bois was only a few feet from the big liner. As the Etruria moved ahead a hundred voices shouted a warning, and the engineer was signalled to reverse, but word reached him too late to save the Du Bois. The May was not seriously damaged.

A tug hovering about the big craft darted into the slip and was around to the rescue of the May in time to save her from sinking. A hawser from the tug made fast the May to the pier, where she rests over the submerged wreck of the Du Bois.

Mrs. Tree Was Departing.

Among those who gasped in terror at the small barge was Mrs. Tree, twain was Mrs. Tree, who was the English actress-manager, who decided late yesterday afternoon to return to London at once. Her determination followed a physician's statement that Mrs. Campbell's voice was in no condition for effort, and as Mrs. Tree's six weeks' engagement in America with Mrs. Campbell would expire before Mrs. Campbell could be able to resume playing she took passage on the first boat across.

Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Tree sat up until 3 o'clock this morning talking over prospects and saying adieu. An hour later Mrs. Tree was driven to the Etruria's wharf in an auto, and at once retired, after giving instructions to be awakened as the liner departed. She was accompanied to the pier by Miss Alice Tait, an Englishwoman of wealth who is touring.

Before the gangplank was hauled in Mrs. Tree said:

Will Return to Play Here.

"My success in 'Electra' with Mrs. Campbell was the most gratifying bit of work that I have done in a long time. I hope to return to America soon and play better parts even. My departure so suddenly is of particular where you drop your line if you are particular what you catch.

Take Care!

The World has a much larger circulation in Greater New York than ANY OTHER morning newspaper.

IT'S THE SHREWD MAN WHO PROFITS BY THE EXPERIENCE OF OTHERS.

12,411 separate advertisements have been printed in "The World" during the last 5 week days—3,929 MORE than in the Herald.

ONE-HALF THE TROUBLES THAT BEFALL WANKIND MAY BE TRACED TO INDOLENCE.

Make it possible for you to say to yourself, when Monday comes:

"Behold these offers of positions, workers, home investments, bargains, etc. Truly I am handsomely repaid for seeing to it that my 'Wants' were advertised in the 'Sunday World'."

CAN YOU SAY AS MUCH WHEN MONDAY COMES?

NEW OUTBREAK AT LISBON FEARED

King Confers on Threatening Situation and Soldiers Crowd the City.

LISBON, Feb. 22.—The greatest precautions are being observed in Lisbon to insure the maintenance of order. It is evident that the Government fears an outbreak of some kind, but up to the present no disturbances have been reported. The soldiers are being kept in their barracks, and the Duke of Oporto, accompanied by a strong escort, makes frequent inspections of the various garrison posts.

All the public buildings, including the Bank of Portugal, are occupied by heavy detachments of the municipal guard. The commerce of Lisbon reflects the secret uneasiness of the people, and is quite lifeless. El Senulo today says that King Manuel, Premier Ferreira, the Civil Governor of Lisbon, and Gen. Lopes, commander of the municipal garrison, had a long conference last night regarding the situation. This paper expresses the opinion that everything indicates that the Government is in fear of armed revolutionary outbreaks.

200 GUNS SALUTE FOR "MASSACRE OF INFIDELS."

FEZ, Morocco, Feb. 18.—A letter has come in here from Mulai Hanli, the Sultan of the South, announcing a "massacre of infidels." Its reading was saluted with the firing of 200 guns. Mulai Hanli says, among other things, that the stream where his men are engaged is "overflowing with the blood of the French."

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1908. PRICE ONE CENT.

George Washington up to date: "I Cannot Tell a Lie, BUT I Can Tell a Lot of Liars!"

THIEF IN FLIGHT SHOT TO DEATH BY POLICEMAN

"Dutch, the Jersey Jesse James," Killed in Newark on Refusal to Surrender.

Frank Ives, alias "Dutch, the Jersey Jesse James," who has broken out of the New Jersey Reformatory three times, and was regarded as a dangerous criminal, was shot and instantly killed early to-day in the streets of Newark by Policeman John F. Weber.

The quartet, carrying a bundle, were halted by Policemen Weber and Peltz at Elizabeth street and Franklin avenue. Their actions were suspicious, and the policemen came up after seeing them come out of a vacant lot.

"Throw up your hands!" cried Weber. Two of the men surrendered, but Ives and a man named Grover Edwards started to run in the direction of Elizabeth street.

Ives for a block, but as Ives was gaining the policeman drew his revolver and called out: "Stop or I'll fire!"

The escaping man took off his cap and waved it in the air and then turned his own alley. The policeman fired three shots. The first shot hit the burglar in the neck and dropped him. The others went wild. When Weber came up he found the man dead.

SCHWAB SAILS FOR HOME WITH OTHER NOTABLES.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 22.—Charles M. Schwab left here to-day for New York on the steamer Mauretania. Among his fellow-passengers are Sir Bache and Lady Cunard, the Rev. Campbell Morgan, Lord and Lady Powerscourt and Robert Edward Guinness and Mrs. Guinness.

Rogers Pits His Humor Against Mark Twain's

"My Business Methods May Be Bad," Declares Standard Oil Man to Author, "But They Are No Worse Than Your Jokes."

"Throw up your hands!" cried Weber. Two of the men surrendered, but Ives and a man named Grover Edwards started to run in the direction of Elizabeth street.

Ives for a block, but as Ives was gaining the policeman drew his revolver and called out: "Stop or I'll fire!"

The escaping man took off his cap and waved it in the air and then turned his own alley. The policeman fired three shots. The first shot hit the burglar in the neck and dropped him. The others went wild. When Weber came up he found the man dead.

Ives for a block, but as Ives was gaining the policeman drew his revolver and called out: "Stop or I'll fire!"

SCHWAB SAILS FOR HOME WITH OTHER NOTABLES.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 22.—Charles M. Schwab left here to-day for New York on the steamer Mauretania. Among his fellow-passengers are Sir Bache and Lady Cunard, the Rev. Campbell Morgan, Lord and Lady Powerscourt and Robert Edward Guinness and Mrs. Guinness.

RESIGNS HIS JOB IN BANK; SALARY TOO BIG, HE SAYS

Alexander Campbell's Action So Strange That He Is Sent to Bloomingdale.

The hallucination of Alexander Campbell, a bank accountant, who was sent to Bloomingdale Hospital for the Insane to-day, is the most remarkable in psychopathic history. He has convinced himself that the American branch of the Standard Bank of South Africa, by which he was employed, at No. 40 Wall street, has been paying him too much money for the work he performed.

Campbell, a young Englishman of good family, was chief clerk in the bank. He came to New York two years ago and took an apartment in the Judson, in Washington Square. A hard worker and a student, he was the most valued of all the employees in the bank.

On Tuesday morning last Campbell went to William McIntyre, the manager, and handed in his resignation. Mr. McIntyre asked him if he had any complaint to make of his position or his treatment.

"No, sir," replied Campbell. "My salary is too large. I am not worth the money."

The amazed manager talked a little further to Campbell and discovered that the hallucination was unshakable. After consultation with others in the bank, all of whom are close friends of Campbell, it was decided to call in a couple of doctors. He was then sent to Bellevue, and from there to the Yorkville Court for examination.

PALACE AT LISBON GUARDED BY TROOPS.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—A special despatch from Lisbon says that the greatest uneasiness prevails there. The palace has been surrounded by troops, the entire garrison is confined to barracks, and all cartridges have been issued to the men.

DIVES FROM "L" PLATFORM UNDER WHEELS OF TRAIN

Man Waits for Approach of Third Avenue Express and Leaps to Track as It Rushes Past Station.

TIMES SUICIDAL ACT SO AS TO MAKE DEATH CERTAIN.

Papers Found on Doubly Clad Body Indicate That Man in Red Silk Muffler of Unemployed Army May Have Been J. Stoyak, of Trenton.

A man who wore about his neck a big, crimson silk muffler such as was carried by the members of a mob of unemployed that battled with the police in the streets of Philadelphia on Thursday, threw himself in front of a south-bound Third Avenue "L" train at the Eighty-ninth street station and was cut to pieces to-day.

Receipts for small payments on life insurance policies found in his pockets indicate that he was J. Stoyak, who had lived at some time in Trenton, N. J.

NEW YORKERS IN EARLY DAY WRECK OF B. & O. TRAIN

Cars Hurlled from Track as Passengers Slept and All on Board Got Bad Jolt.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 22.—Train No. 9, from New York to Pittsburgh on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was wrecked at Salisbury Junction, forty miles east of here, at 5 A. M. to-day. With the exception of the engine, mail car and first baggage car, the entire train was thrown from the tracks.

According to local officials of the road, one passenger, Rudolph Leonard, of the University of New York, was injured by being thrown from his berth. The cause of the accident is not known. Physicians were dispatched to the scene on a special train.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22.—The passengers of the Baltimore and Ohio train wrecked at Salisbury Junction were here at 10 o'clock on another train. While all were seriously shaken up in the accident, Leonard was the only one hurt, and his injuries are slight.

The cause is being investigated.

YOUNG INVALID A SUICIDE.

Philip Deuten, twenty-five years old, a clerk in a Fulton street, Brooklyn, store, shot himself in the right temple during the night at the home of his father, Jacob Deuten, No. 66 Halsted street, Brooklyn. He was found dead in his bed, fully dressed, by his father at noon to-day.

Young Deuten had been in ill health for seven months. Treatment by specialists failed to work any improvement. Since last Sunday he had been in a constant, frequently, morose mood.

Several letters were found in a drawer in his room. One of them, written to his mother, declared that he was about to kill himself because he saw no hope of ever regaining his health. Letters were also addressed to his physicians.

NEW YORKERS IN EARLY DAY WRECK OF B. & O. TRAIN

Cars Hurlled from Track as Passengers Slept and All on Board Got Bad Jolt.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 22.—Train No. 9, from New York to Pittsburgh on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was wrecked at Salisbury Junction, forty miles east of here, at 5 A. M. to-day. With the exception of the engine, mail car and first baggage car, the entire train was thrown from the tracks.

According to local officials of the road, one passenger, Rudolph Leonard, of the University of New York, was injured by being thrown from his berth. The cause of the accident is not known. Physicians were dispatched to the scene on a special train.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22.—The passengers of the Baltimore and Ohio train wrecked at Salisbury Junction were here at 10 o'clock on another train. While all were seriously shaken up in the accident, Leonard was the only one hurt, and his injuries are slight.

The cause is being investigated.

YOUNG INVALID A SUICIDE.

Philip Deuten, twenty-five years old, a clerk in a Fulton street, Brooklyn, store, shot himself in the right temple during the night at the home of his father, Jacob Deuten, No. 66 Halsted street, Brooklyn. He was found dead in his bed, fully dressed, by his father at noon to-day.

Young Deuten had been in ill health for seven months. Treatment by specialists failed to work any improvement. Since last Sunday he had been in a constant, frequently, morose mood.

Several letters were found in a drawer in his room. One of them, written to his mother, declared that he was about to kill himself because he saw no hope of ever regaining his health. Letters were also addressed to his physicians.

FLAMES SWEEP PART OF CLEVELAND CITY HALL.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 22.—Fire of unknown origin broke out in the Council chamber in the City Hall early today, and the building narrowly escaped destruction. The Council chamber was a small room, while nearly the entire building was water-soaked. Many valuable public records were badly damaged.